

Name

Dr. Christopher Catherwood MA (Oxon), M.Litt (Cantab), Ph.D (East Anglia), FRHistS

Affiliations

Dr. Catherwood is a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society, living in Cambridge. He is:

- 1) A Key Supervisor in History for Homerton's Junior Year Abroad programme.
- 2) An Emeritus Archives By-Fellow and a current Senior Combination Room Associate at Churchill College Cambridge (where he completed two books: Winston's Folly (Constable, 2004) [known in the USA as Churchill's Folly: Winston Churchill and the Creation of Iraq, (Carroll and Graf, 2004)] and the forthcoming Winston Churchill: The Flawed Genius of World War Two: (Berkley imprint of Penguin, 2009, forthcoming)
- 3) A Senior Combination Room member of St Edmund's College Cambridge
- 4) A Visiting Professor and Annual Summer School teacher for the History Department and School of Continuing Studies at the University of Richmond, Virginia, USA
- 5) A Tutor in History for the Tulane/Wake Forest/Villanova affiliated Institute of Economic and Political Studies (INSTEP) in Cambridge

Interests

Dr. Catherwood's especial relevant interest is in religious nationalism and religious inspired war and violence, in particular since he was a Rockefeller Fellow at the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy at the University of Virginia in 2001.

Relevant Publications Include:

Dr. Catherwood is the author of over nineteen books. His two main publications relevant to the project are:

Why the Nations Rage: Killing in the Name of God (Rowman and Littlefield, 2002)
Making War in the Name of God (Citadel Press, 2007; translated into Spanish 2008)

He has written several books which have a tangential connection, most notably: A Brief History of the Middle East (Constable 2006; Running Press 2007)